

JUnit vs TestNG

Comparison Chart

JUnit	TestNG
It's an open-source testing framework used for writing and running tests.	TestNG is another testing framework similar to JUnit, but with added functionalities and features
It does not support advanced annotations.	It supports advanced and special annotations.
It does not support parallel test execution.	It allows different threads to run simultaneously.
The group test features does not exist in JUnit.	Group test is an innovative feature of TestNG.
The process of configuration of parameterized test is much easier in TestNG.	The configuration of parameterized test is a difficult and time-consuming process in JUnit.
Various modules are needed to write test cases.	It is better than JUnit in terms of ease of use. 